About CambridgeCultura Ltd.

CambridgeCultura Ltd is a research-led strategy consultancy. This means that we conduct research, and formulate strategy based upon it. The research is generally qualitative, and usually presented as a report, or white paper. We work in a variety of disciplines, centring on social, cultural or political issues.

Our clients have included The Labour Party; WeTransfer; the Department of Science and the National Gallery. Our recent projects have included white papers on the collective attention span; the state of modern slavery in the UK; and the history of cancel culture. We are registered with the Crown Commercial Service as a government contractor.

CambridgeCultura was founded at Cambridge University, and many of our affiliated consultants sit on the faculties of leading universities. Our clients come to us for cutting-edge, university-backed brilliance. They are often fed up with traditional consultancies. We do not churn out meaningless pitch decks or organograms.

Responsibilities

PRIMARY: You will research, write and edit reports in the humanities sphere. You will be an excellent writer, with meticulous attention to detail.

SECONDARY: We are a young company, however, so you will need to be willing to work on other aspects of the business. These include, but are not limited to, pitching and tendering; limited social media work; and some administrative support.

Qualifications

This role has been formed with a current undergraduate student in mind.

You will need to be very smart, and reasonably easygoing. We are flexible about you demonstrate this. Whilst we think that the successful candidate will probably be on course for a first-class degree in an essay subject, this is not a formal requirement.

How to Apply

We encourage those interested to make an informal approach to Dr Ralph St Clair Wade (rscw3@cam.ac.uk) in the first instance. Applications will be received in the form of a CV and a cover letter, for which the closing date is 1 April.
